Bankers & Store-keepers

Bank Jokes is a humorous paper opposed to big mail order houses, department stores, chain stores, five and ten cent shops. Bank Jokes believes that true prosperity follows home trading. Bank men are "Bank Jokes" when they trade out of town, so are clergymen and town officers. Bank Jokes has been $1 a year, but for the present it is but ten cents a year. Do not send postage stamps. Address BANK JOKES, Yarmouthport, Mass.

Petitions Being Circulated and Freely Signed by Business Men and Citizens of the Town.

It seems evident at this time that there will be a local option election called sometime this spring in the city of Clayton, to decide whether or not Clayton shall be a dry town or whether or not it shall remain as it is. If one was to judge by the signers that are on the petitions one would say at once that there would be no question as to the outcome of the election. However, we do not feel at this time that every one that is asking for the election is probably in favor of the movement at this time but with the recent development along this line in the city seems to make it a prominent issue and it would seem at this time that the consensus of opinion among both the pros and the cons is that the sooner it is over with the better. This is a question for the citizenship of the town to settle and is not one that should be colored by or affected with or be any part of business or politics whatever. It is a question in which every man has as much right to express his views and wishes as the other and of course this is the purpose of the circulation of the petitions. We are from Kansas. That does not indicate anything, necessarily at this time, because our dry friends will tell us that Kansas is dry. Our wet friends will tell us that it is Soused to the hilt all of the time. We refrain from further expression at this time as this article is intended purely as a matter of news, that the voters at the election when this shall be an issue shall have had sufficient time to well consider the question and cast an intelligent vote.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 2.—The New Mexico State University has a larger percentage of self supporting students than any other state university in the country, and out of the considerable number of young men and women who are making their way through college here without any assistance whatever, are a number of cases of more than usual interest. One of these is the case of a young Guadalupe county boy, a son of native parents, that seems to disprove the oft repeated statement from some quarters, that the sons and daughters of native parents do not have an equal chance to make headway in our higher educational institutions. This boy arrived in Albuquerque last fall with a capital of $3, a new suit of clothes and a determination to "go through college." His English was imperfect but he had been coached by a devoted district school teacher and he passed the entrance requirements without serious difficulty. Money was necessary, however, for entrance fees and books, and a loan of $35 was secured for him. Last week this lad, through the university authorities, paid to the man who loaned him the $35 the final payment of the loan. It was $20, he having made three prior payments of $5 each. His English is not yet perfect, but his scholarship is nearly so and he appears to be having as good a time on the strictly self-supporting basis as do the students who are financed from home or by friends.

Juan Carrillo Saloon Closed

On Tuesday night of this week the Juan Carrillo saloon closed its doors to the public. This was a sequence to the decision of the District Judge sitting at Las Vegas in the mandamus suit brought against the county clerk, following his refusal to issue license to one Mr. Butler for the opening of what used to be the Ecklund saloon. This petition was denied and the action of the county clerk sustained. Following this is the circulation of a petition asking for an election on local option and it really seems that the saloon question has come into the spotlight and for popularity is bidding for first place at this time.

See "The Battle Cry of Freedom" at the Mission theatre February 26th and 27th and learn why we should prepare. The above is an excerpt from Pres. Wilson's message delivered at Pittsburg on his western speaking tour.
"It has been very difficult to maintain peace, but I am the friend of peace. There have been hourly dangers. Often it has been impossible to control the situation, because others were involved.

"As your responsible servant, I must tell you that the dangers are constant. I must go out and tell the people that new circumstances have arisen which makes it necessary for America to defend itself." President Wilson at Pittsburg.

An Explanation

In last week's issue of the Citizen we stated that Dr. Charlton, for the Clayton Milling Co., would give 1-2 and 1-4 sacks of flour for premiums, etc. There was no mistake in this nor was there in the amounts named except that the customs of the country here are a little different than what we have been used, consequently some did not understand our "lingo." Now the doctor says so that all may understand, we will give premiums in the contest, for the First, Light Bread, 100 pounds of wheat flour and for the second, 50 pounds of wheat flour. Only first prizes will be given in the other two and these will consist of 50 pounds of Graham flour for the winner in the Graham bread contest and 50 pounds corn meal for the winner of the corn bread contest. There seems to be considerable enthusiasm over this contest and it promises to be a warm time, at least for the one that bakes the bread.
